

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

6h

Looks like the protest in Shanghai is trending on twitter 🤖 the protest is about a fire in Xinjiang and suddenly 4427 km away in Shanghai there is a protest just 500 meters from US consul 😞 On top of that They're protesting on a street named Wulumuqi...

Nov 27, 2022 · 8:34 AM UTC · Twitter Web App

💬 64 ↻ 277 🗨️ 64 ❤️ 1,071

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

6h

2. with signs that cant spell Urumqi they didn't know how to write the qi character 😞 despite there being a street sign, and slogans in English plus they don't know how to write 齐 either? Not even an attempt like 其, just straight to pinyin? it's like 6 brush strokes

😞😞😞

💬 14 ↻ 37 🗨️ 18 ❤️ 363

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

5h

3. Don't get me wrong there are plenty of protests in China but a REAL Chinese protest tend to demand local official to step down and national government to intervene. They almost never call for a regime change. Even rarer to call the party leader to step down.

💬 8 ↻ 68 🗨️ 3 ❤️ 461

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

5h

4. Those two things simply do not address the problem at hand. Demanding national leader to step down is a western thing because then they can vote in a new leader. It does not work in China. Strong sign of foreign funded operation.

💬 10 ↻ 44 🗨️ 3 ❤️ 396

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

5h

5. the central government has extremely high approval ratings and it's usually the local ones that people have issues with. There are also foreigners in there chanting down with CCP in the video, they refer to the Communist Party as the "CCP" even though they're in China 😞

💬 7 ↻ 24 🗨️ 1 ❤️ 305

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

5h

6. Also the police stood aside keeping watch instead of clamping down immediately shows 制度自信. These people are lucky if only the police is investigating i know for a fact that Shanghai facial recognition software is extremely good.

💬 3 ↻ 15 🗨️ 1 ❤️ 221

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

5h

7. If the MSS investigating them, these local Shanghainese can say goodbye to their privacy forever, as they will be watched their every move 24/7, Also night protests are extremely rare in China, The only instances where there were night protests where I live...

💬 1 ↻ 11 🗨️ ❤️ 189

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

5h

8. was when there were violent attacks on women, people organized a small protest at night, to symbolically take back the night. The only other instance of a night protest, is that the protest started during the day but lasted so long it went into the night.

💬 2 ↻ 11 🗨️ ❤️ 180

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

5h

9. This was an obvious pathetic attempt to avoid local security cameras 😞 With all the cameras and technological monitoring, I'm not surprised they protested at night as people used a vigil as an excuse to get together

💬 1 ↻ 10 🗨️ ❤️ 175

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

5h

10. because if it was planned, I don't think it could have gotten off the ground. the MSS by now most likely got an ID on all of them and monitor their phone, browser history, bank accounts. I feel sorry for the parents of these young Shanghainese, their future ruined

💬 8 ↻ 12 🗨️ 1 ❤️ 194

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

5h

11. Meanwhile their foreign backers is safely hidden in US/UK embassies or already on the return flights home 🤖

💬 7 ↻ 14 🗨️ 2 ❤️ 221

李倩仪 @quanyi_li2

4h

12. Btw the protest in Xinjiang are very pro China, singing Chinese national anthem and waving Chinese flags, the protest in Shanghai is a like a comedy 😞

💬 13 ↻ 22 🗨️ ❤️ 254